The Rapid Transit Commission has decided upon a site, right through to Harlem, in connection with the City Hall and Fortycond street route. This statement is made upon the authority of a very high city official and the exact details will be made known before the 22d The decision is the outcome of a meeting fancy biscuit factory of Holmes & Coutts, of the Rapid Transit Commissioners at the Washington and Franklin streets, this of the Rapid Transit Commissioners at the Steinway warerooms. Numerous schemes and plans were presented and discussed, one of which proposed to whiz New Yorkers through pneumatic tubes from Forty-second street to the City Hali in less than a minute.

Simon Stern sent a a letter concerning the building of three and a hair miles of underground railway in London by James H. Greathead, the well-known English engineer.

Mr. Greathead's tunnels were from 40 to no feet below the street surface and did not disturb the street traffic.

They are also out of the way of all sewerpines, gas-pines and electric light wires, and each train is its own ventilator. The stations are underground and passedigers reach the street and trains by hydraulic elevators.

Commissioner Potter's route below Forty-second street was discussed at length, and the Commission finally agreed to recommend it. The route is as follows:
Beginning at Forty-frat street, a loop to run around the block bounded by Fourth and Lexington avenues and Fortisch and Forty-first street; then down four the avenue to La'avette place, the inter-string blocks to be cut through to the width of 100 feet between Great Jones and fliecker streets, with more cutting to allow its train to pass through Grossy and Marion streets into Elm. the latter being widened thirty-dive feet on the east side, reaching Boade street where a loop runs around the block bounded by Reade, Centre, Donane and Elm streets.

Fourth avenue alone filts the bill for the Harlem route but at present the law prevents taking it.

It was so hot at noon that stock in the Coney Island and Long Branch steamer companies had gone up fifty points in the estimation of perspiring financiers, and the lee Trust was reported to be considering an advance in the price of hard water to 25 cents an ounce.

When Sergeant Dunn began business at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 66 segrees in the stade. As soon as it got its business legs on it began to travel, and at 10.30 it was at 73 degree. At moon it was turning the 80 degree mark and was still vigorous.

Thus far 84 degrees had been its record and Sergt. Dunn, looking on approvingly to-day, said that it could do 86 degrees without winking.

But the pestiferous presence of old Hugh Midity is what makes everything so sticky. He was on hand to the extent of 80 per It was so hot at noon that stock in the

He then blew out his own brains with the same revolver.

The only witness of the affair was the poor girl's unfortunate mother, who, confined to the sofa by a stroke of paralysis, was unable to interfere, and was thus compelled to remain for ten hours alone with the corpses before the crime was discovered.
